(1) Because there were two related meta-analyses published five years ago, although they could not identify Helicobacter pylori infection reduced the risk of esophageal squamous cell carcinoma. So I believe the "update meta-analysis" is more appropriate than "meta-analysis".

(2) Figure legends and Table legends had been improved.

(3) Keywords had been stated at the bottom of the abstract.

(4) The introduction had simplified to 2 short paragraphs.

(5) The references had increased to include all reviewed, relevant articles.
