Title: Ileal conduit stomal variceal bleeding managed by endovascular embolization

Authors: Yao DH, Luo XF, Zhou B, Li X

Name of Journal: World Journal of Gastroenterology

ESPS Manuscript NO: 4707

The manuscript has been improved according to the suggestions of reviewers:

1 Format has been updated

2 Revision has been made according to the suggestions of the reviewer

(1) Some information about the patients would also be important: biochemical tests such as serum levels of platelets. Patient had portal hypertension?

We have added the information of the platelets, prothrombin time(PT) and international normalized ratio(INR) which were $78 \times 10^9/L$, 18.6 second, and 1.18, respectively. The patient had portal hypertension and the portal-pressure gradient measured during and after the operation were 18 cmH₂O and 19 cmH₂O respectively.

(2) Please reformulate: Postoperation opacification displayed the varices disappearance (Figure 4), and the portal-pressure gradient was 19 cmH₂O.

We have reformulated: The portal-pressure gradient measured after the operation was 19 cmH₂O, and postoperation opacification displayed the varices disappeared (Figure 4).
