

Dear Editors and Reviewers,

We thank you for your valuable and constructive comments regarding our manuscript. Changes has been made to the manuscript accordingly, and highlighted using track changes.

Response to Editor:

-Language has been checked.

-To meet the word limit, the title has been change to: From prolonging life to prolonging working life: tackling unemployment among liver-transplant recipients

-A copy of the signed conflict-of-interest statement has been attached.

-The address for correspondence is now provided in more detail.

-Reference format has been changed according to WJG instructions.

-Figures are provided in PPT format.

Response to Reviewer 1:

Productive life is a key goal to real sucess of liver transplantation, quality of life results are described but not according to working status. This review wake up the perception about this problem and indicate a new research line for future papers.

-I thank the Reviewer for Your valuable comments. The language of the manuscript has been checked.

Response to Reviewer 2:

This is an analysis of an employment after liver transplantation. As there is no substantial analysis about the issue, the manuscript could be worth publishing. As there are few realistic strategy, it would be beneficial to add these data.

-I thank the Reviewer for Your valuable comments. The language of the manuscript has been checked.

Response to Reviewer 3:

Excellent review

-I thank the Reviewer for Your valuable comments.