Comment: As a gastroenterologist interested in the history of medicine I liked reading this paper. I have no observation. I wonder if a journal for history of medicine would not be more appropriated for submission.

Response: We thank the reviewers for their interest in this paper and while we agree that this manuscript could be suitable for a history of medicine journal, we feel that he broad readership of the World Journal of Gastroenterology will also find it of interest.

Comment: This is a very well written historical review of the discovery and development of post-infectious irritable bowel syndrome.

Response: Thank you.

Comment: I did not find any key words associated with the manuscript.

Response: Key words have been added.

Comment: On the manuscript page 6, line 7, I believe there is a grammatical error where you said "lead" but probably meant "led."

Response: Thank you for this observation. The reviewer is most correct. This was an error and has been changed.

Comment: Also, PMID and/or DOI information should be added to the references per the journal style requirements.

Response: PMID and/or DOI information added per requirements of the journal style for references in which these exist.
