Title: Pathogenesis, Prevention, Diagnosis and Management of Retinal Vein Occlusion

Author: Shay Keren, Anat Loewenstein, Gabriel Coscas

Name of Journal: World Journal of Ophthalmology

ESPS Manuscript NO: 11702

The manuscript has been improved according to the suggestions of reviewers:

1 Format has been updated

2 Revision has been made according to the suggestions of the reviewer

(1) language and spelling errors were corrected.

(2) References were added to paragraphs missing references.

(3) Manuscript structure was changed to BRVO first and CRVO later based on the reviewer suggestion.

(4) Regarding the preference to dexamethasone: the authors wrote the review based on trials and studied published in peer-review journals. The manuscript is a review of literature and no comments were made related to "real-life" experience since it is subjective.

(5) Same comment related to increased IOP and cataract formation after dexamethasone treatment. The data presented is from controlled- trials and not individual experience.

(6) The section about dexamethasone contains a paragraph about the long-term treatment of dexamethasone. So are the sections about bevacizumad. All is based on literature and not individual experience.

(7) Regarding the combined use of PRP and Bevacizumab- review of the relevant literature does not indicate which was done first. A comment was added to the manuscript.

(8) The importance of laser in CRVO was strengthened in the text.

3 References and typesetting were corrected

Thank you again for publishing our manuscript in the World Journal of Gastroenterology.
