

Response to Manuscript Number: 87459

	Journal Comments	Reply/Action Taken
Step 1	Observational research is a comparative study. ("MATERIALS AND METHODS This was a single case observational study."). Single cases should be submitted as case reports.	Observational study can be descriptive and analytical types (comparative ones), as case report are descriptive type, it was considered under observational research. If editor allows this single case study to be published under case report section, we have no issue, but it should be considered as invited article.
Step 2	Please extend the section of introduction. Please revise English structure.	It is modified.