

Response to Reviewers #24631

Thank you

Reviewer 1.

My only comment is that the authors should address the fact French bilingual speakers may be more likely to be employed in Canada (consistent with 3 of 4 being employed), an effect that may be independent from any association between bilingualism in general and job status.

This has been addressed (statement added in bold)

Reviewer 2

No suggestions for change

Reviewer 3

It must be nice if the author give us one more paragraph dealing with the basis for success or failure in the attempt to include schizophrenics in these tasks.

This is an excellent recommendation and I have tried to do it justice in several places (all in bold).
