CERTIFICATE

July 28, 2022

Article: Antibody and complement levels in patients with hypersplenism associated with cirrhotic portal hypertension and therapeutic principles

This document serves to certify that the aforementioned article has been copyedited to appropriate scholarly standards of English for publication in a professional scientific journal. The authors take full responsibility for ensuring that further post-editing revisions have been reviewed by the copyeditor prior to journal submission.

I hold BS degrees in both Biology and Chemical Engineering with hands-on research experience and have been copyediting journal articles and other materials for more than one year. I am an active member of the Editorial Freelancers Association and received certification in the Stanford Online Writing in the Sciences course.
