To whom it may concern,

By means of this, I, Maria Fernanda Calderon Hernandez, manifest that I am widely trained in the translation, understanding, revision and correction of medical texts in English. Therefore, regarding the submitted manuscript No 63401, with the received date: 2021-01-28 to the journal: World Journal of Diabetes with the title: "What can we learn from b-cell-failure biomarkers applications into diabetes in childhood?: A Systematic Review", authors: María Fernanda Calderón-Hernandez, Nelly F Altamirano-Bustamante, Cristina Revilla-Monsalve and Myriam Marlenne Altamirano-Bustamante, in which I also happen to be the first author, I inform to you that the revision and correction of the manuscript was carried out by me.

I count with various certifications that support my knowledge in English as a language, in which I am qualified even in terms of teaching it.

With these, our intention is to significantly reduce the margin of error since the manuscript was mainly written, reviewed and corrected by the same person, this, of course with the support of all authors previously mentioned.

I will be awaiting any doubts or clarifications that may arise,

Best regards,

Calderon Hernandez Maria Fernanda
