

Assistance in translating and proofreading the paper was provided by Alexey Malafeev, Associate Professor at National Research University Higher School of Economics in Nizhny Novgorod, Russia (<http://www.hse.ru/staff/aumalafeev>). Having graduated from the Linguistic University of Nizhny Novgorod and obtained a Russian equivalent of a PhD (Candidate of Philology), A. Malafeev is currently teaching the English Language and Corpus Linguistics. He has taught English for over eight years and also has considerable work experience in translation and interpreting. A. Malafeev has published 24 academic papers, including one in English (Malafeev A. Y. Automatic Generation of Text-Based Open Cloze Exercises, in: Communications in Computer and Information Science Vol. 436. Springer International Publishing, 2014. P. 140-151.). In 2011 he passed the Cambridge Certificate of Proficiency in English (CPE) exam, which is the highest difficulty Cambridge English exam, with Grade A (highest possible grade).